

To whom it may concern

Personal Reference for Tetiana Sementsiv

I have known Tetiana Sementsiv since September 2009. As a student Tetiana is a delight to teach. In the process of studies she always has a genuine interest in languages being a student of the Institute of Philology at Kyiv National Taras Shevchenko University. Her interests in linguistics are fairly wide, ranging from the history of the Ukrainian and English languages to the problems of culture, history, traditions and the literature of English-speaking countries.

Tetiana Sementsiv attends well and participates to the full. She was an active participant of the American Studies Course in 2009 in 2009 held at the University. She has attended seminars of the English speaking club for 4 years. Tetiana is highly motivated, imaginative, hard-working and cheerful person. She is widely read, acquisitive, persistent and determined. She is always ready to work in team.

Besides being a clearly motivated by the desire to learn English for her personal development, Tetiana fully understands that Ukraine of today is in need of highly qualified specialists. I am quite positive that she well deserves a research grant which would help her in her further studies and work.

Laryssa Kovalenko
Associate professor
Institute of Philology
Department of Communication and Area Studies

