Beyond the essay – Making the preparation for the writing exam
a little more enjoyable (80 min)

Examinations matter. For students, parents, our schools, and ourselves as teachers they are often seen as the key indicator of success in language learning. In this session we analysed the requirements of writing exams in Ukraine and evaluated a variety of classroom and homework activities designed to support the development of writing skills.

Creating a bonded learning group – Creating classroom dynamics which encourage group and individual learning (40 min)

There are many reasons for focusing on positive classroom dynamics. The cooperative skills and attitudes that we encourage in our students are among those most frequently demanded by today's employers; a supportive, warm atmosphere helps people take the risks they need to in order to learn. In this talk our focus was on three ways we can support a positive dynamic.

Making the most of students' potential (60 min)

Students in mixed-ability groups each have their own unique potential, but how can we make the most of it? The session aimed to offer simple and practical ways in which we can make the content and language of the lesson more accessible and engaging to students in the group – whatever their language level, personality and interests might be.

Language in context for exam preparation (60 min)

Getting ready for exams is a serious business, but does it always have to be dull? In this session we looked at preparing for the Use of English component of exams, with the emphasis on helping students to develop effective exam strategies through a series of engaging and motivating activities that can help improve both language awareness and autonomous learning skills.
